

Project style is the graphical style of the interface that can be changed by both an integrator and an end-user.