

The first thing to do is to create the structure of an automation object: the number of floors, their names, names of rooms and where they are located. The created structure can be edited later.