After a project is uploaded into the cloud, a integrator can send an end-user a link to download the project. To do it, open a project, go to General tab and select users and panels section. Select Invite user and in the window that appers enter i3 lite user's login. When this is done, a link to project download is sent to the user. In this section an integrator can also see a list of panels that use this project. An integrator, as an administrator, can delete panels from this list to save place for other panels in the license.
