

No, i3 lite license for setting is already included. But the license allows only to set a project in the configurator, but it does not allow to use i3 lite to control devices in the future.